"During our time together at PCL Jennie ran our HR department in Ottawa, while also providing, in house training and facilitation for our company on as need bases. Not only did Jennie excel in her role as HR manager, she was without a doubt one of the best trainers I have ever worked with and possess facilitation skills that are equal to or better then any others I have witnessed."

“As a result of her efforts, we were able to focus and put together an effective communication. We would recommend Jennie highly to any organization needing a facilitator.”

Joe Keyes, General Manager

Construction Labour Relations Association of Ontario

Designed with construction in mind

Having held a senior HR role in the largest construction management organization in Canada, Jennie West-Correia developed a strong pre-project workshop and post-project review process to accommodate the fast-paced environment of construction. Knowing the speed at which you move from project to project and understanding that you have very little time in between to reflect and assess, both the workshop and review focus on meeting your objectives and making the most of your time.

“Jennie is a thoughtful and exceptional listener with a pragmatic way in her approach. She finds what matters most to the group she is working with to help them be successful and uses her insightful and thought-provoking nature to ensure everyone is heard and that focus is maintained in an orderly manner. I endorse and recommend Jennie’s skills to organizations who are looking for a facilitator to assist with partnering, executive coaching or strategic planning.”
